

God who lives

Scripture Reading: Job 19:25, Exodus 3:6-11

We are going to look about the characters of God. We see so many people around us worship their idols. The bible says that idols have eyes but do not see, they have ears but they do not hear, have mouths but they cannot speak out.

The God whom we worship cannot be likened unto them. He is a God who is alive today and forevermore. He looks upon us, he hears when we call out to Him, and He knows our struggles and does things in our favor. He is a God who inquires of us.

Job 7:18, Psalms 8:4, 144:3, Hebrews 2:2, 7

When you are sick, your parents and friends will take care of you. When we meet our friends or relatives after a long time, we will inquire of their wellness. Our inquiry will just be of words. But our Lord God inquires of us each day.

Since the father was suffering from a deadly sickness, the mother had to leave her 8 year old son in the house and be with the father at the government hospital that was very far from home. The relatives had fed the child for quite some time and then showed negligence. The son was suffering from hunger. One fine day he decided to somehow reach the hospital. The hungry son started walking. The child was also thirsty and sorrowful. Not being able to take it anymore, he sat by the road side and fell asleep. All of a sudden, someone woke him up and offered some food and water. He thanked that person and unto this day is living his life for God. God inquired that child. Even when others fail to inquire of you, God will never fail.

Questions:

1. What kind of God do we serve?
2. How does God inquire of us?
